KANSAS SENATOR HERE

J. R. BURTON, WHO LEFT INDIANA TWENTY-SEVEN YEARS AGO.

Become the Leader of the Republicans of Lis State-Surprised at City's Growth.

Senator J. R. Burton, of Kansas, who was in the city yesterday afternoon, is one of the considerable number of men who left Indiana and made a conspicuous success in other States. Senator Burton was born in Lawrence county and received his later education at Franklin and De Pauw Twenty-seven years ago he was law with Alfred F. Potts in the office of Major Gordon in this city. As a boy he had been an elocutionist, and this led him into public speaking when he became a young man. His first taste of politics was with Major Gordon, and he went on a campaigning tour with the major when he was reading law in his office.

The attractions of the West seized on Burton and he went to Abilene, He began at once to take an active hand in the turbulent politics of Kansas and now is recognized as the leader of the Republicans of his State. He served in the Legislature five terms before he asked for a higher office. Six years ago he sought the United States, senatorship. The "anti-Burton" caucus was formed and he was beaten by one vote. In 1896 he beat John J. Ingalis for the nomination for the senatorship, but that year Kansas was struck by the Popullstic wave and Harris was sent to the Senate. Last year Kansas returned to the Republican line and Senator Burton had not stopped in Indianapolis for thirteen years before yesteriay. In 1888 he was here to call on General Harrison after he was nominated by the Republicans for the presidency. Yesterday afternoon Senator Burton was taken for a drive over the city by Alfred F Potts, and the development of Indianapolis was a revelation to him, he said. He was escorted through the new Columbia Club building and met many of the club's mem-

In one of his conversations he remarked that he was vice president for Kansas of the Harrison monument fund, and said that while many Kansans are ready to contribute to the fund they are waiting to hear what the Indianapolis people are going to do in the matter. He left last night for St. Louis and from there he will go to his home. He had come directly from Washington.

A Test by Republicans.

Republicans have determined to test the City Council's right to appoint election inspectors independent of the mayor without delay. Addison C. Harris and Baker & Daniels have been employed to make the legal fight. It is the intention to have the inspectors to apply to the Board of Election Commissioners for ballots and if the board denies their request, to bring suit for a writ of mandate. On the other hand, if the Democrats decide to let the special election in the Fifteenth ward go without denying the authority of the inspectors the Republicans will seek to enjoin the board from delivering the ballots. In either event the question will be determined by the courts.

CONCERT OF MANY STRINGS.

Indianapolis Mandolin Orchestra

Played to a Large Audience.

The Indianapolis Mandolin Orchestra had an audience that more than half filled Tomlinson Hall last night. The orchestra is of seventy-five pieces, nearly all strings, and Mr. Burton was made a United States | the effect was exceptionally interesting. The mandolins predominated, and their vibrant sound was backed by the heavier guitars and smoothed by the violins, the 'cellos, the flutes and a bass viol. The multitude of strings made the listener wish for some brass at times, but the programme was so made up that few heavy demands on the orchestra were made, and its light character suited Metz's "Hurricane March," Noel's "Valse Caprice," Reiter's 'Manuella Portuguese," Amsden's descriptive "Dream of Fairyland," Verdi's "Rigoletto" duet and Pomeroy's "Troubador" overture, which were played. Mr. Cameron, the director, kept the orchestra well together. The audience was delighted and showed its approval of the players' ambitious enterprise. The orchestra was assisted by Lillie J Adam, contraito, and Frank N. Taylor, baritone. Miss Adam was on the programme for four songs and Mr. Taylor for two, but they pleased the audience so well

CITY ENGINEER JEUP ESTIMATES

-City Affairs.

He Will Submit the Specifications to the Board of Works To-Day

City Engineer Jeup has completed the plans and specifications for the new stone bridge over White river at Washington street and will submit the same to the Board of Public Works to-day. On paper the bridge is a structure of great architectural beauty. It is composed of nine arches, each of which is forty-two feet in ment is twenty-two feet wide at the bottom. The width of the roadway is fifty feet from curb to curb and there are two tenfoot sidewalks, giving the bridge a total width of seventy feet. The bridge will be built entirely of stone with the exception of some concrete to be used in the foundations and backing for the arches. The piers will rest on piling. The arched stone and coping of the plers are to be rock-faced and the spandrel walls will have a smooth surface. Each arch rises seven feet six inches from the spring line and will be two feet six inches thick at the crown, increasing to three feet six inches at the spring line. The roadway of the bridge will be paved with asphalt and the sidewalks will be made of cement. The stone structure will be surmounted by an ornamental iron railing with four stone balustrades at the wing-walls on each cor-

The width of the roadway of the bridge has been planned to comport with the width of Washington street west of the river. Mr. Jeup approximates the cost of the entire structure at about $150,000. It is probable that the Board of Works will advertise for bids on the work immediately and then an effort will be made to secure the

The construction of the bridge would require all the way from six months to a year in which to complete it and during that time it is proposed to erect a temporary bridge where the old Washingtonavenue bridge now stands.
